Priest Surrenders Earthly Goods to Enter Monastery

Rev. Geo. F. X. Strassner Resigns Hope Pastorate After 11 Years

TO ENTER SUBIACO

Takes Vow of Poverty, Approaching the Higher Spiritual Life

On the eve of celebrating the 19th anniversary of his ordination to the Catholic priesthood, the Rev. George F. X. Strassner, pastor of the Church of Our Lady of Good Hope, of Hope, resigned his charge last June first.

There are 11 counties of mission territory attached to this pastorate. His resignation, which seldom happens among the Catholic clergy, was given that he might enter the religious life, and such a procedure is even rarer among the diocesan clergy. When such a desire is expressed by one of his priests, the bishop must by canon law give consent both to the desire, and the choice of abbey or monastery, as such a step is an approach to a higher spiritual life.

The diocesan clergy vow obedience to their bishop, and also take the vow of chastity. The regular clergy belong to an order or society and vow obedience to their superior, who is under the direction of the bishop—and besides the vow of chastity, vow poverty. As the Rev. Strassner will take the additional vow of stability.

Takes Monk's Habit

After a period of six weeks' probation, which the Rev. Strassner expects to begin near the end of this month, he will receive the Benedictine habit—the habit is the uniform, called cassock, that is proper to the community, as regards color, style, and structure. The Benedictine habit is a black cassock, with a hood on the back, called also a cowl, which is worn as a head dress when the occasion requires. The day he receives this habit, he begins the Novitiate year. During that year he has no contact with the world—no newspapers, correspondence in and out is controlled by the Superior, visitors are allowed at certain times only—his time is spent in prayer, meditation, spiritual reading, and learning the rules, tradition, custom and spirit of the Benedictine rule and life. If he should leave the Novitiate during this year on account of death in his family, or sickness, or other like reason—he is allowed to go—he must start his novitiate year over.

There are many Benedictine Abbeys scattered over the world, but the Rev. Mr. Strassner has chosen to remain in Arkansas—he believes in the future of Arkansas—and will join the New Subiaco Abbey, at Subiaco, Ark., which is some 40 miles south of Fort Smith. The original of this Abbey is located at Einsiedeln, Switzerland; and this name was chosen by St. Benedict for the first abbey he built. The Benedictine rule is the oldest of the four major religious guides to monastic and conventual life. St. Benedict founded the monastic life in the beginning of the fifth century.

Surrenders All Property
By the vow of poverty, the Rev. Mr. Strassner has surrendered all property.

MARKETS IMPROVE

Stock Exchange Shows Average Gain of $3 Per Share Thursday

CHICAGO.—(AP)—Scattered rains brought temporary relief Thursday to a few sections in the nation blanketed by stifling heat—but no general break was forecast in the torrid weather.

Deaths reached at least 168, and the blazing destruction continued to mow down crops in the fertile fields of the Middle West.

Misery, want and despair grew in the agricultural regions of the west. The heat wave involves about half the nation.

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Impressed with the recent accumulation of favorable trade and industrial news, and reassured by the appearance of rain in some of the drought-stricken grain regions, traders bid stocks up as much as $3 or more a share Thursday.

Marland Assured Place in Run-Off

Well Ahead of Smith, But 44,000 Behind Leader in Primary

OKLAHOMA CITY.—(AP)—Gov. E. W. Marland, increasing his second place lead in late returns, announced that he will contest for the United States Senate Democratic nomination in a run-off with Representative John Lee.

Lee, a supporter of President Roosevelt, had a lead of more than 40,000 over Marland and his manager suggested that Marland withdraw, eliminating a runoff.

Marland replied: "If I'm in the run-off, I'm going to run it off. I'm going to win. I'm for the run-off primary."

When 3,286 of the 3,411 precincts had counted their votes, Marland held an edge of more than 4,000 over Gomer Smith, national vice president of the Townsend plan organization.

For 3,353 precincts the vote was:
Lee Marland 164,298
Smith 120,002
Senator Gore 88,703

In the Republican Senatorial primary, Herbert K. Hyde, prosecutor of the Charles F. Urschel kidnappers, while United States district attorney here held a long lead over Horace McKeever, Enid lawyer.

Borah Faces Real Fight for Senate

"Lone Wolf" to Battle Both Townsends and the Democrats.

BOISE, Ida.—(AP)—Senator William E. Borah, "lone wolf" of American politics, announced for re-election Wednesday night in the face of powerful Townsend and Democratic opposition. Jesse Hawley, attorney for the dean of the Senate, filed nominating petitions entering Borah's name in the Republican lists for the August 11 primary.

Borah will be opposed in the primary by Byron DeFoe Bach of Boise, former state treasurer, who has been endorsed by the Idaho Townsend organization—claiming 100,000 of the state's 200,000 votes.

Other Republicans who have announced are state Senator Ralph Whitten of Grimes Pass and state Representative Tracy Coker, novelist and school teacher, of Shoshone.

Gov. C. Ben Ross, potent campaigner, has announced after three consecutive terms as chief executive, for the Democratic nomination for Borah's senate seat. Leslie Aker, Boise attorney is Ross' only opponent.

60-Day Furlough Granted Thursday by Governor

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Governor Fittrell Thursday granted a 60-day furlough to Eugene Harkack, 33, Fort Smith printer, who joined his brother in a series of sensational western Arkansas bank robberies ending in the slaying of a bank official at Paris in 1933.

He was sentenced to three years for the Paris bank robbery.

Lots of other people are fed up, too, but they haven't waited so long to say so. See where Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, U. S. Minister to Denmark, is going to marry a Dane. ### Negro Playground Will Open Friday

Yerger Park to Be Opened at 3 p. m. With Address by Mayor

The negro WPA playground at Yerger park will open at 3 p. m. Friday with a speaking program headed by Mayor Albert Graves.

Other speakers include, Miss Ollie Sandefur of the Hope district WPA office, and members of the Negro Ministerial Alliance of Hope.

The park will be under the supervision of Edmond Davis, negro. He will be assisted by two negro WPA employees, Cora Buchanan and Val-dine Dixon.

Myrtle Lloyd and Jettie Mae Anderson, negro employees of the National Youth administration will also aid in caring for children at the park this summer.

Permanent equipment at the playground includes a tennis court, one ocean wave swing, a group of small swings, two groups of see-saws, one children's slide and other recreational fixtures.

The negro supervisor, Davis, said that the playground would be open from 9 to 6 o'clock each day with the exception of Sunday. Davis said that the negro public was urged to send children to the park where he promised entertainment and protection.

The age limit, he said, is from five to 21.

Last summer two negro parks were opened here. One will be maintained this year.

Farm Strike Ends; Results in Doubt

Union Head Claims Wage Increase—But Statement Is Contradicted

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—A Southern Tenant Farmers Union statement Thursday declared an end what was described as "a general strike" among eastern Arkansas tenant farmers, share-croppers and day laborers.

Secretary H. L. Mitchell claimed the strike was successful, forcing higher wages for thousands of day laborers.

The announcement, however, brought laughs from farmers and officers of Cross, Crittenden and St. Francis counties, in which the strike was called. All insisted that the strike had never been effective.

America Rides Gypsy Lanes, as Thousands Go by Auto Trailer

Home on Wheels in This Day Covers Every Convenience

"Social Status" Today Far Above That of Old Tin-Can Traveler

THE "LAND YACHT"

Building Thousands of Them Has Boomed a Brand New Industry

"Home! Home on six wheels! Where the trailers pull up for the night!"

"Where seldom is heard a disparaging word, And expenses and taxes are light!" —Gypsy Road Song, 1936 By NEA Service

He is well past middle age. He has rescued some small income from the deluge of depression, or he has a retirement pension.

His health was none too good a year ago, but it's getting better. His wife, one child, and their dog are with him. He is restless, yet contented in his restlessness. He hasn't a care in the world.

He is the typical trailerman, whose house is on wheels and attached to the family car, and whose home is wherever he chooses to drive it.

He is one of an estimated 100,000 such modern gypsies. He is forerunner of a day 20 years hence when, it has been predicted by Roger Babson, half the population of the country will be living in motor trailers. He is today's modern descendant of yesterday's Tin Can Tourist.

And he is the spark plug of a new industry which is opening up a great virgin field to motor manufacturers.

Thousands on Roads
With summer at hand, vacant lots, tourist camps, and the newer specialty designed trailer, camps are beginning to be lined with the new trailers fitted out for living purposes, of which there are estimated to be 250,000 on the road.

That means 750,000 people living at least part of the time in trailers. And every one of them is a potential candidate for that sort of life as a permanent thing.

Most of the trailers on the roads today are being used for vacations and week-end outings, or by salesmen or other traveling men. But an increasing number belong to families who have no other home whatever.

Up to that time, the Tin Can Tourist, was a sort of road nuisance, whose ramshackle, home-made trailer or house-car was to be avoided on the road or shooped out of the pasture lot if it came to rest there.

Boom for Builders
Since that time, so fast has the trailer idea taken on, that the roads are crowded with sleek, streamlined, scientifically designed "land yachts," and the tourist camps and cabin settlements have had to add parks for trailers and house-cars.

Several hundred builders are turning out trailers just as fast as they can put them together, and among them are a half dozen who are really going into the thing on a mass-production scale.

The rumor persists in motordom that one or more of the largest motor manufacturers will turn within a year to quantity production of luxurious trailers at a low price. The market may reach 400,000 a year within four years, motor industry sharks believe.

The modern trailer is from 15 to 30 feet long, a streamlined metal shell, which "hitches" to the car ahead with a railway-like coupling. The interior is like that of a fine yacht, with chrome fittings, davenport which convert into bed, stove, ice-box, sink, folding table, and even hot and cold water and a chemical toilet.

Given Every Convenience
The newest models are miracles of compactness. Electric heat and light are provided, running either from batteries or arranged to plug into any standard electric circuit. Most of the 15,000 modern trailer camps provide electric lines especially for this purpose.

At the top is the compact interior of a modern "home on wheels," while the picture at the bottom suggests both the carefree life of the trailerman and the modern streamline design which is replacing clumsy trailers of yesterday.

Farm Market to Be Prepared Next to Frisco Depot

Hope Ordinance Prohibits Wagon-Truck Sales on Third Street

PARKING CAUTIONED

Public Asked to Prevent Congestion and Threatened Accidents

Meeting in special session Wednesday night, the city council passed an ordinance prohibiting parking of vehicles on Third street which is loaded with farm commodities merchandise for the purpose of sale.

The council fixed a penalty upon conviction, a fine of not less than nor more than $25. The ordinance pointed out that Third street is Highway No. 67 and that increased traffic and selling of farm products and merchandise from vehicles had created a hazardous situation.

The council applied for permission to use a lot west of the Frisco depot for public parking and a place where Hempstead farmers could display their products for marketing.

Whether the application will be rejected or approved will take only a few days, officials said.

Ask Public to Co-Operate
The Third street parking ordinance does not prohibit unloaded vehicles from parking, but E. P. Young, chairman of the police committee, appealed for public co-operation on this point.

He asked the public not to park long periods, helping to eliminate possibility of wrecks and injuries.

He said that the traveling public appreciate clear highways. Obeyance of the new ordinance and public co-operation in this matter will greatly be appreciated and will relieve congestion on this street, he concluded.

No other business was discussed at the special session.

Dr. J. H. Weaver, city health physician, said in his monthly report Tuesday night that "in my opinion the city is in the best sanitary condition that I have ever seen it."

The report, however, called attention to open toilets in the sewer district and the need for cutting off weeds.

Police Chief Ridgill's report showed 51 arrests for June. The amount of fines assessed totaled $405; cases dismissed, 15; cases not guilty, 1; cases transferred to state, 1; prisoners assigned to streets and jail, 15.

The total cash collected on June fines amounted to $223. Cash collected from trash hauling amounted $83.50, bringing total cash from fines and trash hauling to $306.50.

Financial Condition
Charles Reynerson, city treasurer, filed his monthly report which showed:

Answering a Question...

Because The Star arranged its Centennial Edition as a magazine rather than a daily newspaper, many subscribers have been unable to find the reading matter which identifies the full-page picture on the cover.

The frontispiece of a magazine is always described in the table of contents. You will find a description of The Star's frontispiece at the top of the table of contents, on page 2 of the first section—which is the reverse of the frontispiece.

The lovely lady in the picture, of course, is Margaret Sullivan; and the scene is from her photoplay, "So Red the Rose," which appeared in Hope last January.

Your Baby's Health

By DR. MORRIS FISHER
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Fever usually is a sign that a child is ill. A slight increase in temperature, however, is not of itself alarming.

Many babies and children with temperatures just above 99 degrees may be more dangerously ill than babies with 103 degrees. The temperature of the child is not as steady as that of the grownup, and varies frequently within large limits.

Baby's temperature usually should be taken with a large bulb thermometer made especially for taking temperatures by the rectum. The range for babies is between 98 and 99.5 Fahrenheit, but not infrequently will vary between 97.5 and 100.5 degrees.

To be certain of a correct reading, the thermometer is shaken well and left in place at least two minutes. Usually it is best to leave in the instrument for one minute longer than the time printed on it.

There are many different causes of fever in young children. A sore throat, a cold, or a disturbance of digestion may bring about a fever, or it may indicate the onset of any of the common infectious diseases, such as scarlet fever, measles, diphtheria, whooping cough, or chickenpox.

As has been mentioned already, the physician should be called in immediately when there is a fever. No attempt should be made to give strong cathartics, or to clean out the bowels with castor oil, until some one is certain of the nature of the disturbance.

Many feverish babies feel better after a sponge bath with lukewarm water. An ice cap or an ice bag around the neck is helpful in cases of sore throat or severe headache.

The diet should be restricted. In the presence of severe bowel disturbance, all food should be stopped until the physician is in charge of the case.

In complaints without bowel disturbance, light materials, such as cereals, broths, and finely ground or sieved foods may be served. Water may be given in large quantities, as well as orangeade and lemonade.

The fever is likely to be particularly high in cases of earache or in other conditions in which infectious material is accumulated under pressure at some point in the body. In such cases a release of the infectious material usually brings about prompt fall in the temperature.

It is not well to temporize, even slightly with a severe earache.

Your Children

By Olive Roberts Barton

One cannot help offering up a few remarks about the Fourth, in a column devoted to children. It seems, however, that it was only a week before last that I opened up full blast against death by gun powder, instead of a full year ago. What more can I add?

Safety Move Growing
It is encouraging to note that an increasing number of cities and communities are banning fire-works; not pyrotechnics for adults to handle, but such things as will hurt children. But we all know that the day after the great Jubilee, headlines will be shocking just the same.

Funny how parents feel. They made a day of it when they were youngsters, and, remembering not the teeth-ache escapes but only the thrills, they feel that to deprive Johnny of his crackers, cap-pistols and torpedoes—to say nothing of cannon—would be like making him do without Christmas.

And yet they know very well that there is more danger now than there was 20 years ago because the most innocent looking "shooting crack" may be a regular stick of dynamite. Not necessarily so, but there is a good chance.

Dad Used to Splurge
As a matter of fact, I belong to those whose dad's, on the third of July, spent on fireworks for his kids money enough to buy himself a dozen good shirts. And, in turn, I was an excellent customer for my own children. I don't dislike fireworks; in fact, I'm a real fan. And if we could keep our zeal down somewhere into the realm of good sense and reasonable safety, I wouldn't dream of writing this article at all. There are dozens of exciting but averagely safe fun-makers that children of discretionary age can handle. But where are the old lazy penny-poppers we used to get?

Perhaps this year they will be on hand, haven't seen enough of anything yet to be sure. Perhaps everything will be labeled plainly as to content and hazard, so that Papa Smith will know what to take home to Johnny and what to let alone as completely as he would a ten-button rat. (That is, if P. S. is to be trusted himself and not the kind who thinks all the other kids on the street might get hurt, except his Johnny.)

Here's "Don't" List
I post-scribe a few rules that the Medes and Persians used to edict in my old home. They're better today than ever. That is, if you live someplace where family fireworks are permitted and you can't bear to hear the Millers and Wilsons and Joneses popping under your windows while your Johnny stands around with his thumb in his mouth. Thus they run:

Never let a child throw a cracker, no matter how small, or put one under a box or can. Never let him go near one that seems to have winked out, lift or blow on it. Stick around yourself and oversee things. Don't let Hank, the adventurous neighbor, come over with his TNT cannon-crackers to show off. Put off the fancy fireworks yourself after dark, if you know how. It will ease your thirst for celebration, and keep the children safe. And to bring this catchism up to date, don't haul the family out on crowded roads. If you really must, keep in line and keep your head and temper. Fireworks are not the only perils of the Fourth of July.

A Book a Day

By Bruce Catton

The story-book Old South of brave men, beautiful women, and a romantic Lost Cause is led into court with its hair mussed and a paragon stocking down about one ankle in Margaret Mitchell's ponderous novel "Gone With the Wind" (Macmillan, $3).

Miss Mitchell writes of the plantations of Georgia, of the carefree and aristocratic life that prevailed on them before the war, and of the cruel, shattering blow with which war and reconstruction cut the ground out from under them. But, while her sympathies are solidly with them, she hasn't been fooled much.

For if she writes of brave men and noble women, she also finds room to tell of the graft and incompetence which helped wreck the Confederacy; of the profiteers, the slackers, the crooks, and the incompetents who stabbed Lee and his army in the back.

Indeed, her own heroine comes off worst of all. She is a dainty, snail-paced, virtuous, and ultra-aristocratic young woman—and underneath it all she is as cold, as grasping, and is completely on the make as any of the

Hollywood

By Paul Harrison

HOLLYWOOD—Talktown dogs, well-billed, steak-fed and aired in limousines, now have a vacation resort of their own. There they go to recover from nervous breakdowns and from indignation brought on by too much caviar and French pastry, fed them by well-meaning but thoughtless guests at cocktail parties.

This is a Dude Ranch for Dogs. It is operated by Gladys Shipman, blond camp followers on the streets of wartime Atlanta.

As her world dissolves in the storm of war and reconstruction, this sentimental selfishness does enable her to save the old plantation; but it also wrecks a number of lives, including, at last, her own.

Miss Mitchell has been exceedingly ambitious in this novel—it runs to more than 1000 pages, which is a lot of novel—and the performance is uneven. She goes bonnie blue flag frequently in spite of herself, not all her characters are well drawn, and the book sometimes becomes rather dull. All in all, however, it is a noteworthy performance.

Anti-Monopoly

piece of Playwright Nell Shipman. She got up a brochure that it as fancy as the pamphlets issued by most hotels, and sent copies to all the stars in Hollywood.

The literature is embellished with cartoons of dogs fishing, riding horseback, cooking flapjacks, chopping wood, and playing tennis and golf.

It got results. Pooches owned by Ginger Rogers, Katharine Hepburn, Richard Dix, Harold Lloyd, Clark Gable, Mrs. Thomas Ince, Alice White, Walt Disney, and Louise Fazenda already are vacationing at the dude ranch.

Scores of other pets have reservations. They will pack their favorite bones and travel to the resort as the summer rolls along, and actors and actresses flit off to Europe and holiday way-points.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

CLAIRE FOSDICK sets out to drive to the lonely mountain home left her by her eccentric uncle, LYMAN FOSDICK. Claire is trying to decide whether to marry NICK DAUM, to whom she owes money. She also hopes to find a valuable and mysterious jewel owned by her uncle and believed to be hidden in the house.

Her car is wrecked by a log across the road. PAUL MAGAN, an old friend and BOB STEELE, a young engineer, arrive on the scene and take Claire to the mountain house, where FBI SHERIFF and his sister, SUSIE, are the caretakers.

Claire sees a curious arrow carved on the wall of an upstairs bedroom, and, lamp in hand, follows the arrow to the cupola. A noiseless bullet shatters the lamp.

Next morning FBI Sheriff disappears. Bob Steele sets out for the village and is found seriously injured.

LYMAN, Claire's housekeeper, arrives. Pat, trying to solve some of the mysteries of the place, wanders into a deserted attic. An unseen opponent attacks him and Pat falls.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VII

CLAIRE watched alone at Bob Steele's bedside. Hannah had gone to get a room ready for herself, and Susie was busy about her kitchen duties. A foreboding stillness hung over the old house. Only the sound of the breeze in the pine tree and the faint, uneven dripping of the eaves could be heard. Claire moved to the window, hoping to see Pat returning.

Her thoughts were broken by the sound of the door opening, and Hannah beckoned her from the room.

"I caught her red-handed! Going through your bag," she whispered.

"What do you mean, Hannah?" "Just what I'm sayin'. I came into your room and there was Susie, rummaging 'round in your things. She kinder giggled and said you sent her for something."

Claire shook her head. "No, that was her own idea. But I can't imagine what she was after."

Hannah shrugged. "I never have put anything past that woman."

"Oh, well, you're prejudiced, Hannah. But I'll speak to Susie about it." She walked back to Bob's room, more disturbed than she wanted the maid to know. She determined to have a straight talk with Susie as soon as she could leave Bob. She had promised Pat to stay until he came back.

BUT the hours went by and Pat did not return. At last Claire called Hannah and went downstairs to see if she could find him. The house seemed deserted. Dan Dallas had been sent down to the

The ranch is in the mountains at Big Bear Lake, 100 miles from Hollywood. A bus fitted up with individual compartments calls for the guests and delivers them back at their homes.

At Big Bear the dog dudes also have separate quarters, and in each private yard, says Miss Shipman, are two or more pine trees.

There's a maternity hospital, too, with private rooms, "each done in blue and white." For food, husky ranch fare; no French pastry.

Miss Shipman has worked out a social program for her guests. Every day there's a hike through the forest, also rabbit-chasing rodeos. And swimming parties for the ones that like to paddle in the lake.

Exclusive

Now something about the children of movie people: The few who work regular in pictures go to school right on the sound stages. Some have private tutors, but all are under supervision of the Department of Education.

Non-professional sons and daughters of screen celebrities, many of them, anyway, attend the private Carl Curtis School. This institution, located right in Hollywood, looks like a composite of all the swanky seminaries you have seen in the movies.

Swimming pool and athletic field would be the envy of many a large college. Classrooms have French windows, rugs on the floors, and tricky desks adjustable for size.

There's not much about it that's reminiscent of the storied little red schoolhouse. Tuition fees include transportation, but many of the kids arrive each morning in black-long cars.

Instead of apples, some of them bring preview tickets to their teachers.

There aren't any fights during recess, except when some youngster is brash enough to say, "My mother is a better actress than your mother!"

Children of Famous

Students during the semester just ended include Joe E. Brown's Mary, who's 4; Joan Pine, 5, daughter of Virginia; Lois Laurel, 8, whose father is Stanley Laurel; Glenda Farrell's 14-year-old son, Tom; Edward Arnold's Jane, 11, and Patterson McNutt, son of William Slavens McNutt.

Some graduates: Conrad Nagle's daughter, Ruth; Marcelita Boles, daughter of John; Jack Holt, Jr., Noah Beery, Jr., Edward Costello, son of Dolores Costello and John Barrymore; and Richard and John DeMille.

Carl Curtis, a former Detroit Y. M. C. A. director, died three years ago.

after founding the school, and it still devotes a lot of attention to physical education.

Principal Howard Broadbent, reluctant to talk for publication, did say that movie kids aren't pampered as much as the public thinks. He also said that his biggest difficulty is with unreasonable parents, who complain when their children don't get top billing in school plays.

Egyptian Disk Mystifies

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Local archeologists are puzzled by a metal disk of alleged Egyptian origin found in an Indian grave antedating the Mission fathers. The disk was with ashes and other remains dug up in San Pasqual valley by Fred C. Perrigo.

Belgrade Bans Chicago as Yugoslav City Name

RETROGRAD, Yugoslavia. (AP) If Belgrade officials hadn't put foot down, this town would have been renamed for Chicago, Ill.

Orders that Yugoslav place-names be changed to remove former Austrian and Hungarian connotations, meant the names of Yugoslav patriots, heroes and kings, without more ado.

Not so Veliki Beckerek, whose residents believed the town's reputation for lawlessness was like Chicago's. The proposal got to the capital, but a government official vetoed its promptly by telephone. So Veliki Beckerek became Petrovgrad.

Just watch yourself, and see you do

If you are dreaming of a future goal
When crowned with glory, men shall

14 Plums Appear in Single Cluster

W. E. Bailey Produces Unusual Results in Roston Road Orchard

W. E. Bailey, who resides a mile east on the Rosston road, has plums that grew in clusters.
He appeared at The Star office
Thursday with a branch, less than a foot long, which bore 14 plums.
So thick were they that some had grown double. He said that his tree was loaded this year, growing in clusters as though they were grapes.
He attributed the prolific growth to a hydrant in his back yard which keeps the ground moist around the tree.

• "What a
Money-Saver
My Dodge Is!"
says "RUSS" OAKES, nationally-known Baltimore sports writer

I was sold up to the hilt on the new 1936 Dodge long before I bought one. Now that I have one
I am just bursting with enthusiasm about it.

For looks it's an eye-ful...How it handles...and what a money-saver it is! I'm getting close to 21 miles to the gallon of gas...Use no oil between drains...

...and that Dodge is just packed with expensive-car features.
Think of it! It sells for just a few dollars more than the lowest-priced cars...At the rate it's going it will eventually cost me less than my old small car...No wonder Dodge sells more automobiles than any other make with the exception of the three lowest-priced cars.

Poland Asks Auto Plants; Few Sales

Panic and Poor Roads Offset Abatement in Motor Taxation

WARSAW—(P)—The Polish government is considering bids for opening automobile assembling plants in Poland.
It has been announced that the most acceptable proposition has come from General Motors, which would co-operate with the Polish company of Lil-pop, Rau & Loevenstein.
High duties have greatly curtailed
the number of automobiles in Poland.
Tax abatements have been granted to car purchasers, but it is calculated that no more than 5,000 cars can be sold annually in Poland on account of the economic depression and the poor roads.

"Joe, do you think I'll ever be able to do anything with my voice?"
"Well it might come in handy in case of fire."

$50,000.00 STOCK RENOVATION CLEAN UP!! SALE

GENERAL
OPEN FRIDAY, JULY 10, 9 a. m.

IT IS IMPORTANT THAT YOU READ THIS MESSAGE
It is in explanation of the title of this sale. A store in business for 47 years with the best of merchandising tactics will accumulate many odds and ends in every department.
This store is no exception, and now we are going to be real, down right honest with ourselves and our customers and tell them the situation.
In every department we are making prices on merchandise that as far as style is concerned, many items are out of date—BUT—we are also making these prices SO LOW in relation to the high grade, good quality we have always maintained, that in justification to yourself, you will take advantage of such price concessions—YOU WILL NOT PASS THIS BY!
We wish to state that in the near future, we plan for a renovation of this store, not necessarily in remodeling the interior or decreasing our quality standard, but in giving more concern to keeping NEW stock NEW at all times.
At the prices we quote on these many items and others you'll find throughout the store, we trust you will favor us by a big response when our doors open next Friday at 9 a. m.

Grants Stay for Death Sentences

Governor Indicates Additional Time for Draper and House

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Governor F. B. Rowles granted a 30-day stay of execution Thursday for Roy House and Lytle Draper Thursday on the eve of their scheduled execution Friday morning for the robbery slaying of Tom Mensey. Percy money-lender.

Hearing Wednesday
LITTLE ROCK.—After listening more than two hours Wednesday to pleas for clemency for Roy House, 22, of Perryville, and Roy House, 22, of Hot Springs under sentence to be electrocuted at Tucker farm Friday morning for the robbery-murder of Tom Mensey, money-lender, Governor Rowles indicated that a stay may be granted to permit further study of their cases.

Lawyers and friends of the men appealed to the governor to commute their sentences to life imprisonment, and although the governor interrupted to say that a life sentence in Arkansas ordinarily means "only five to seven years," he promised Draper's lawyer to "grant time" to investigate legality of the term of court at which Draper was convicted, if the courts won't grant a stay and asked lawyers for House to have Special Judge C. T. Cofham write the governor a letter expressing his views on the case.

Illinois Solon Is Slain by Gangsters

His Advocacy of Legalization of Gambling Believed to Be Motive

CHICAGO.—(AP)—State Representative John M. Bolton was assassinated Thursday in typical gangland style. A shotgun blast ripped through his head after he had failed to distance his pursuers in a mile-a-minute automobile chase through West Side streets. Officials, at a loss for a definite motive, pondered the theory that his efforts to legalize handbook betting here brought swift underworld retaliation.

Karpis Gangster Killed by Police

Lawrence DeVol, Minnesota Asylum Fugitive, Shot to Death

ENID, Okla.—(AP)—A quick-firing gunman slain by officers after killing one Enid policeman and wounding two others, was identified by fingerprints Thursday as Lawrence DeVol. Widely-hunted Karpis-Barker mobster, who led 15 escaping convicts from the Minnesota insane hospital last month.

DeVol was accosted by police in a beer garden Wednesday night. DeVol drew a pistol and began firing, killing Patrolman Cal Palmer. Two officers chased DeVol two blocks and shot him down.

Cloudy Weather Means Mischief

Good Publicity Story! havior of Children as Well as Weather

SPARTANBURG, S. C.—(AP)—The barometer is an accurate forecaster of little Johnny's—or Mary's—conduct, according to a group of local school teachers who have checked their pupils.

When winds are blowing from the east, cloudy weather prevails and the atmospheric pressure decreases—look out! Children are more inclined to misbehave," says Teacher L. R. Bull. On several succeeding days when these conditions prevailed, the teachers say their charges were much more unruly than usual.

"I guess it's because that, with less pressure on their bodies, children have more opportunity to rid themselves of meanness," Bull comments.

Here's the answer to that musical query, "How you gonna keep 'em down on the farm?" A radio on a cultivator does it for Herschel Batey, Paragould, Ark., farmer, shown here as he enjoyed music and baseball resumes while his mule team moved up and down the corn rows. Batteries and radio were set on the tongue of the cultivator and aerial fixed from front to back, with the cultivator frame serving as the "ground." ## Labor Delays Its 'Showdown' Fight

A. F. of L. Postpones Final Ultimatum to Revolving Unionists

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, assured President Roosevelt Thursday that there is a great mass movement in labor for his re-election.

A. F. of L. in Struggle
WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor's Executive Council recessed Wednesday night without discussing its dispute with John L. Lewis or his steel organization campaign.

After voting to charter the American Newspaper Guild as an international union, the council decided to see whether Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers made a requested appearance at Thursday's session before voting on whether to oust him from the federation.

Lewis, leader of the federation faction that believes all the workers in each big industry should be organized into one big union, has been said he would not appear.

"The council knows how I feel," he told reporters.

In a talk with reporters after the council meeting, Green spoke bitterly of Lewis' statement that the committee for industrial organization had undertaken the steel organization campaign only after the A. F. of L. had talked of a campaign for two years without doing anything.

The Federation of Labor reported to President Roosevelt that it had found 4,576,501 workers were affected by a breakdown in labor standards during the 10 months after the death of the NRA.

The report, based on a nationwide survey, was submitted to the president by President William Green.

It said an increase in working time for more than 14,000,000 workers had averaged 8.7 hours a week. Green told newspapermen that the president had "manifested great interest" in the survey and promised to take the report with him for study on his vacation trip.

Green praised a recent Labor Department employment estimate, but said it showed that at least a 30 per cent increase in non-agricultural employment would be required to provide work for all the jobless.

Only suckers will stand still and wait at the future of this country," Col. T. Russ Hill, Toledo, O., industrialist.

Thomas Meighan Dies at Age of 57

Great Movie Star Earned $10,000 a Week Before His Illness

NEW YORK.—(P)—Thomas Meighan, 57, who portrayed "The Miracle Man" and appeared in other stellar screen roles, died Wednesday night at his Great Neck, L. I. home.

A recurring illness caused him to make a trip to the Pacific coast several months ago for treatment. A year ago he was operated upon for the removal of a bronchial tube obstruction.

His widow, the former Francis Ring, actress and sister of Blanche Ring, was with him at the end. He also survived by James Meighan, a brother, living in New York.

Meighan reached the peak of popularity in the film world during his lengthy career which began 20 years ago. In 1925 he was reputed to be drawing one of Hollywood's top salaries, $10,000 a week. In recent years his film work has been broken by long periods of idleness, his last picture being "Peck's Bad Boy" in 1934.

Meighan was Pittsburgh's gift to a movie public which liked its heroes definitely on the strong arm side. He was handsome, stood six feet one inch, carried his roles easily and had a fine sense of humor easily translatable into pantomime in the days of the silent screen.

His parents had every hope that their son would be a doctor, but the closest he ever came was an occasional role of doctor by grace of the casting director.

Success attended his efforts on the stage prior to his entry into motion pictures in 1916, but the work which "made" him as an actor was a film called "The Miracle Man."

An actor-director partnership with Cecil B. DeMille, exponent of lavish state settings, profited him considerably, for he rapidly was becoming an idol not only of the women movie patrons but of the men as well. The advent of the sound movie proved no de terment to Meighan.

Brings Realty Worries

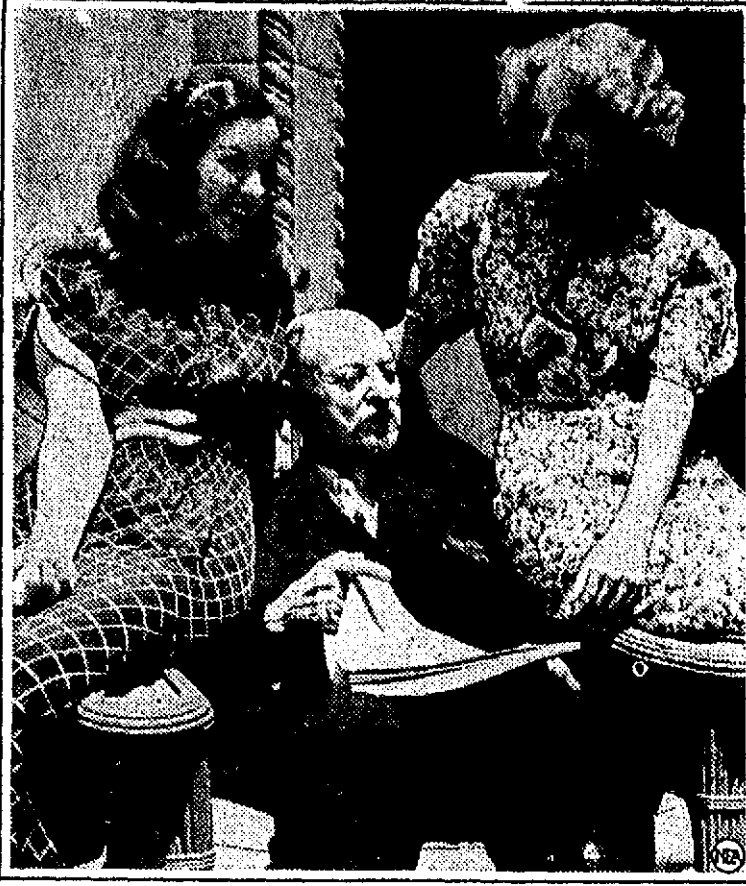

The building and designing of these trailers is certainly one of the fastest-growing of new industries, and real estate people are already speculating on what may be its effect on house and lot values if the time ever comes when large sections of the population become nomadic.

For of course the trailerman pays no local taxes except such sales levies as may be garnered from him as he passes. He licenses his car in whatever state will do it cheapest. If any state tries to tax him, he simply hitches up and moves on.

The trailermen are beginning to organize, too. The earlier Tin Can Tourist conventions, when ramshackle cars gathered at Sarasota, Fla., and other points convenient to those following the sun, have now been replaced by a newly formed Auto Tourists' Association.

There is at least one magazine appealing to trailermen, trailer-builders,

Two Generations of Newcomers

Broadway never was like this, might have been the thought of the venerable Daniel Frohman, dean of the American stage, when he posed for this picture with two charming young actresses—all three newcomers in Hollywood. Both English girls, Margaret Sinclair, left, has just arrived from Shanghai, and Elsa Buchanan has finished a dramatic course at the Paris Conservatory

At 105 He Flouts Rockefeller Rules

"Never Get Annoyed? Poppycock!" Says Aged Florida Fisherman

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(AP)—Charles W. Eldridge, just turned 105, neglected his rowboat and fishing pole Wednesday to scoff at the rules of health laid down by John D. Rockefeller Sr.

"The young fellow asked for it," chuckled Eldridge, observing that this was Rockefeller's 97th birthday. "I see by the papers he comes out with 10 rules of health, and they ain't bad for a youngster in his 90s. But for the second hundred years they just won't do."

Eldridge, commander of the G. A. R. post here and manager of the Three-Quarter Century Club ball team, said the younger generation is long on making rules but short on experience.

"Take Rule No. 5 in young Rockefeller's list," Eldridge snorted. "Don't allow yourself to get annoyed, it says. That's poppycock. I've been annoyed most all of my 105 years, and two or three times it saved my life.

"Once I got so mad at a couple of doctors who said I was done for that I jumped out of bed for the first time in three months. I was 92 then and grass has been growing on them doctors' graves for 10 years."

Eldridge's fits of temperament on the ball field are well known to the sports writers who report the spring workouts at the Boston Bases and New York Yankees training camp here.

Twice last season he marched his team of oldsters off the field when sound news cameramen invaded the diamond for closeups, but was coaxed back.

"Darn fol de rol," he muttered.

He didn't agree with Rockefeller's insistence on doing everything that the doctor says, but acknowledged he'd been under their care several times.

"I wasn't ever sick a day until I was 82 or 83," he boasted.

Eldridge was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, June 23, 1831. He married three times and is thrice a widower.

His ballot has been cast for 22 presidential candidates and he expects to make it 23 in November. A Republican, he said that Landon would get his vote.

"I'm one of them rugged individualists," he bragged between puffs on his pipe, "like this Rockefeller youngster."

Tenderfoot: "What do you do for a living?"
Cowboy: "Punch cows, lady."
Tenderfoot: "Oh, how could you be so cruel?"

Blames Auto for the World's Ills

America's on Wheels and Out of a Job, U. S. Treasurer Asserts

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Sailing for a vacation in England, William Alexander Julian, treasurer of the United States, said Wednesday, "what's wrong with the world today is the internal combustion engine."

"The nation has been put on wheels. Everything is mobilized. Through the internal combustion engine the number of human beings who have been thrown out of employment is beyond the counting."

"What are we going to do about it? All I can say is that we had better keep our heads as best we can."

"I'd like also to remind young men that 90 per cent of the taxes collected today in this world are collected to pay off wars in the past, in the present and for the future."

With Julian were Mrs. Julian and Mrs. Daniel C. Roper, wife of the commerce secretary. Sailing next week, Roper will join the party in London.

and camp-site proprietors.

Several thousand trailers and house-cars have been assembled together on a single lot when the trailermen met in convention in Sarasota, in Michigan, in Massachusetts, or wherever the sun and the breezes and the fishing called.

Americans, always a Gypsy race since covered wagon days, are turning by thousands to permanent life on wheels.

Priest Surrenders

Strasser surrenders his right to all personal property. For even the nickel he wishes to spend, he must get the consent of his superior. The large library he now possesses will be given to Subiaco Abbey; and all his personal possessions, as his auto, insurance, property may be immediately disposed of, or else wait until September, 1937, when he makes his vows for life. For the remainder of his life his earning power gifts, legacies, are given to the abbey, which in turn provides him well for all his material needs.

Another worldly loss as he enters the order, will be changing his Christian name to one the Abbot will give him on his Reception Day. Nevertheless, to Kiwanians and Rotarians, and friends all over Southwest Arkansas—he will always be called "Smiles."

Benedictines have come down all the centuries as scholarly men, and spend much time in study and writing. They conduct many high schools and colleges; as well as do parish work.

The Rev. Mr. Strasser had his early training in the public and parochial schools in Toledo, Ohio. His high school and classical college courses were pursued at Notre Dame, where he graduated in the same class with the widely known Coach, Rockne. His theological training was received at St. John's Seminary, Little Rock.

Here for 11 years

He has been in Hope two weeks short of eleven years. During the first three years of this period, he was prefect of discipline and professor at Little Rock College, coming to Hope on week-ends. Three years he was secretary of the Hope Kiwanis club, a year as Lieutenant Governor of Division 7 of the Mo-Kan-Ark Kiwanis district; membership first in the De-Queen, then the Stamps Rotary clubs; a speaker before all the civic clubs and P. T. A. units in Hope and the adjoining territory. His friendliness for all classes of people, have earned him a host of friends.

Besides beautifying the Catholic church property in this large territory, developing by constant instruction a stauncher faith in his adult and children membership, he has been a great help to all people. Magnolia, at first receiving occasional visits, has grown to receive some Sunday attention. A mission for negroes was started a few miles from Hope, when 11 were baptized after a year of instruction and probation. Three years as district chairman and scout commissioner of the Hempstead County Boy Scout District saw troops revived, developed, and a troop for negro boys organized in Hope. His crowning achievement occurred the last Sunday in May when eight children—only one in high school, others in and under the sixth grade—learned the motto of a High Mass and sang this beautiful and difficult air without adult help. They learned without an organ; and sang their first High Mass without an organ.

On this Saturday, the Rev. Charles F. Stanowski, recently pastor of St. Elizabeth's Church, Oppelo, Ark., will assume charge of the Hope church and this mission territory. He was born in Pennsylvania, and received his early schooling there. After his theological studies and ordination at Little Rock, he took an advanced practical course in mission work by spending a year in the Diocese of Amarillo, Texas.
